Signing In to Library Resources: Current CTU Faculty, Students, and Staff

1. The system instituted in Fall 2020 requires users to register at the site specified by the IT department using the first part of your CTU e-mail address (the part preceding the @ sign) and the password described in the IT department e-mail. Contact support@ctu.edu from your CTU e-mail address if you didn’t get the directions or if the registration process fails.

2. When you click a link to a Library database, an article, and some e-books, you'll see the screen on the left. When logging in to the new catalog (PrimoVE) and other e-books, you’ll see the box on the right. In either case, select the top option.

3. You’ll see the screen below next. Sign in with your CTU e-mail address and the password you created in Step 1 (disregard the tab at the top that says Password Reset. You are in the right place!)

4. If you click on any link (from the Library, a syllabus, an old bookmark) and see this screen, you’ve reached a link that needs to be updated. Your user name and password won’t work on this screen. A workaround is to go to the Library home page (www.ctu.edu/library), click the red EDS button, then search for what you’re looking for by title and author.

Tip: Seeing ctu.idm.oclc.org in any url tells you that you’ve found an old link that won’t work.
